Details:

As the first sea salt harvestry in Canada and one of the fastest growing companies in the Comox Valley, Vancouver Island Sea Salt is now making waves (pun intended) in the global salt market. Fast paced and innovative, we are looking for highly motivated individuals to share in our growth and to explore the multitude of opportunities for career advancement that will emerge with our success. Overview We are seeking a diligent and detail-oriented Packager to join our sea salt production team. The successful candidate will be responsible for preparing and packaging food products in accordance with safety standards and company procedures. This role offers an excellent opportunity for individuals interested in food safety and production processes, with a focus on maintaining high-quality standards throughout the packaging process. Prior experience in food production or related fields is advantageous but not essential, as comprehensive training will be provided. Duties • Accurately package our sea salt products following specified guidelines and standards • Ensure all packaging materials meet quality and safety requirements, including HACCP protocols • Operate packaging machinery efficiently and safely, with mechanical knowledge beneficial for troubleshooting minor issues • Conduct quality checks on finished products to ensure compliance with food safety standards • Maintain cleanliness and organization of the packaging area to uphold hygiene standards • Record production data accurately, including quantities packed and any discrepancies • Assist in inventory management by tracking packaging supplies and notifying supervisors of low stock levels • Follow all health and safety regulations diligently, including adherence to food safety practices

Qualifications & Experience:

Full time employment. Must have reliable transportation. Experience • Previous experience in food production or packaging is desirable but not mandatory • Knowledge of HACCP principles and food safety regulations is advantageous • Mechanical knowledge or experience operating packaging machinery is a plus • Basic math skills for measuring, counting, and recording data accurately • Ability to work efficiently within a team environment while maintaining attention to detail • Willingness to learn new skills and adhere strictly to safety protocols This position offers a vital role within our production line, ensuring that our products meet the highest standards of quality and safety. We welcome applications from motivated individuals eager to contribute to a dynamic food manufacturing environment.
