

IMAGINE YOUR LIFE'S WORK IN OUR PIECE OF PARADISE

Port McNeill, B.C.

We are hiring a Combined Laboratory/X-Ray Technologist to join our team at Port McNeill Hospital. The salary range is $26.99 - $33.64 hourly. This position includes working some weekends and on call shifts. You may also need to cover shifts in Port Hardy, Port Alice and Alert Bay (Cormorant Island). An MLT will also be considered (salary may be negotiated based on experience).

As the Combined Diagnostic Imaging - Laboratory Technologist, you will be working without general supervision. You will receive and complete requisitions, forms and reports, as well as prepare and monitor supplies and equipment.

You will monitor patients, operate general imaging acquisition equipment, as qualified, including archiving acquired images and carry out routine Laboratory and ECG testing (as qualified).

Qualifications

You have successfully completed a recognized combined Laboratory / Medical Radiography Technician program, along with one year of recent related experience (or an equivalent combination of education, training and experience). Registration with the Alberta or Saskatchewan College of Combined Laboratory/X-Ray Technologists is considered an asset.

You work well with computerized patient data systems.
