

Cetus Research & Conservation Society is a non-profit, marine conservation society, which operates in the waters around Victoria and Alert Bay, BC. Since 2005 we have worked to reduce disturbances to marine mammals on the BC coast and promote respect for our marine environment through on-the-water and land-based education, outreach and direct monitoring activities. For more information please visit our website: www.ProtectOurWhales.com

Cetus is seeking to fill the following position:

Robson Bight Marine Warden (Vessel Operator/ Research Observer)

Responsibilities include:

- Educating boaters, kayakers and park visitors about the boundaries of the Robson Bight Michael Bigg Ecological Reserve, the marine mammal viewing guidelines, marine species at risk and the conservation issues they face
- Collecting and entering data on marine mammals and vessel activity
- Public presentations: either as informal, individual interpretations or scheduled, formal community presentations
- Supervising volunteers and involving them within the daily responsibilities of the programs while ensuring a safe, productive and memorable work environment

Knowledge, skill and ability required:

- The ability to safely operate small rigid hull inflatable vessels in coastal waters, including rough waters with limited visibility
- Knowledge of boat/motor maintenance and repair (preferred)
- The aptitude to multi-task and work in a fast paced, quickly changing environment
- The ability to work for 8-11 hour shifts in all weather conditions
- Willingness to work flexible shifts, including weekends and holidays
- Effective communications skills and the ability to stay calm in tense situations
- The aptitude to be observant and timely with an ardent attention to detail
- The ability to live & work comfortably in a remote coastal wilderness camp setting with co-workers & volunteers
- Demonstrate background knowledge of the marine mammal species in the area and current marine conservation issues
- The physical ability to carry 20lbs of gear to and from the vessel to base camps (this varies from across the street to down a rocky slippery shoreline). In addition to this the Robson Bight Marine Warden is required to hike, 3km (each way), from the base camp to the observation site on alternate days, while there is minimal gear to carry the hike takes approximately 1 hour

Required Certifications:

- A current BC drivers license
- A current first aid and CPR ticket
- A Marine Radio Operators license
- A Marine Emergency Duties A3 certificate
- A Small Commercial Vessel Operators Proficiency Certificate

This position is seasonal with the contract date ranging from late June to early September 2018.

Please forward your cover letter and resume via email by February 28th 2018. You will be asked to supply two references at a later date. Only successful applicants will be contacted.

Contact: Marie Fournier and Erin Parsons, Cetus Society, Email: robsonbight@cetussociety.org